Mother & daughter accused of scamming casino

A cashier at Cache Creek Casino – and her mother – are charged with defrauding the casino of $34,000.

The office of Yolo Sheriff Ed Prieto reports that the sheriff's office, casino and state Department of Justice have finished a four-month investigation that resulted in two arrests.

26-year old Keitisha Lashell Tucker of Sacramento and her mother, 44-year old Regina Reshell Payne of Rancho Cordova, were both arrested on Sept. 24. Payne was being held on $215,000 bail, and Tucker on $100,000 bail.

"Between early May, 2013, and September 24, 2014, Payne completed nine fraudulent credit card transactions totaling over $34,000 at Cache Creek Casino Resort, with the assistance of Tucker (a casino cashier)," reported sheriff's spokesperson Mark Persons. "Payne utilized multiple fictitious credit cards and a fictitious Illinois driver's license to complete the transactions."

The pair were charged with burglary, grand theft, unauthorized use of a credit card and conspiracy.

They were scheduled to be arraigned last Friday.

Rite Aid to pay $13 million fine

Yolo County will receive $600,000 as part of a $13.2 million settlement about Rite Aid's practicing in handling hazardous waste issues statewide.

The office of District Attorney Jeff Reisig said the Yolo D.A.'s office worked with the county's environmental health department and a team of other California district attorneys and city attorneys to launch the civil lawsuit.

Reports the Yolo D.A.'s office:

"The case started in 2009, when environmental health agencies across the state began investigating issues with the handling of hazardous waste materials

Guild brings back some ribbons

Members of the West Sacramento Art Guild – a collection of local artists – took home a number of ribbons at this year's Yolo County Fair in August.

Member Jo "JoJo" Gillies reports that Agnes Nielson took a couple of first place and a couple of second place awards for her embroidery work, and also gave a demonstration of this art form at the fair.

Andrew Pierce earned a second-place for a portrait in the "airbrush" category.

Roger Rehm took three ribbons, for his work in the oil, acrylic and watercolor categories.

Vona Giese earned first place in knitting and second for a pencil portrait.

Linda Bowron won a pair of third-place ribbons for embroidery.

Carol Hawkins took first in advanced collaging.

Jo Gillies earned three first-place awards, plus a second and third place ribbon, for her work in watercolor, acrylic and oil. She also took "third best overall" for a collage entry.

Jerry Reno took a pair of first-place ribbons, also winning a first and second "best overall."

Art guild members will take part in the "Wine & Art Faire" fundraiser scheduled for 1-7 p.m. on Oct. 6 at the Old Sugar Mill, 35265 Willow Avenue in Clarksburg. The event is a fundraiser involving many musicians, artists, and craftspeople, and will benefit the Lymphoma & Leukemia Society. For information, visit www.LLS.org/sac or call 744-1625 or 275-8719.

The guild welcomes new members. Call Agnes Nielsen, 374-1810.

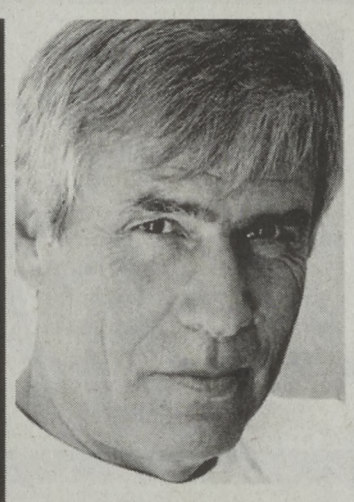
The myths we all live by



My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Back when I was working my way through college by being a grocery store checker, I used to wonder why it was that so many of our over-weight customers would pile their shopping carts full of fattening foods (especially cookies, ice cream and big bags of potato chips) and then also purchase a couple of six-packs of diet sodas to wash everything down. It never made much sense to me, and the other day I really wasn't all that surprised when a new scientific study came out saying that people who drink diet sodas are actually more likely to gain weight than if they just drank the real stuff.

The more I thought about all those poor people wanting to lose weight who have been faithfully drinking all those yucky diet soda drinks for decades, the more I thought about how all of us depend upon myths of one sort or another to get through our days. I even ended up giving myself a little mental history lesson that covered some of the really horrible stuff that lots of people once accepted as fact. For instance, in this country alone there were once lots of people who believed that slavery was the best ways for black people to live out their lives, and that the genocide of the American Indian was needed for this to become a great nation, and that the 19th century robber barons were actually good for workers in general and capitalism in particular, and that the internment of loyal Japanese Americans was needed to keep us safe during WWII, and more recently, that 'shock and awe' was the best way to deal with the Muslim world. And if you think we have a poor record of getting things right in this country, don't forget about the rest of the world, were the Romans considered throwing Christians to the lions to be sport, and where the Inquisition brutally tortured those who didn't believe and worship as demanded by the religious tenets of the day, and all those millions of people who couldn't get their arms up high enough and fast enough to salute their beloved Fuhrer.

Anyway, I was mentioning all this to a friend of mine the other day and the first words out of his mouth were, "So, tell me again how you got from Diet Coke to Adolph Hitler?"

"I'm just saying that human beings everywhere have always thought they knew what they were doing when in reality we usually get things wrong as often as we get them right. In other words, most of life is an illusion, and the truth is almost always about 180 degrees from where we think we will find it."

"Well, if you want to talk about some of the illusions and myths that control our lives, I'm pretty sure I know the biggest one!"

"And what is that?" I asked with interest.

"It's that happily-ever-after thing that we all grow up believing, you know, where all we have to do is find that one special person who was put on earth just for us, marry them, and then live happily-ever-after. But no one ever tells you that it only happens to the lucky few."

"You know what Albert Camus had to say about the institution of marriage, don't you?"

"No. What?"

"He said, `It is yet to choose the most aesthetic suicide; marriage and the 40 hour week, or a revolver."

"Well, if I tell my wife that," said my friend with a smile, "she actually might break out a revolver!"

Anyway, later that night, I found myself going in search of something I had written long ago about some of the many assumptions I have made over the years that have turned out to be pretty much the exact opposite of what I once believed them to be, and here are just a few of them:

> Most of life is an illusion, and the truth is almost always 180 degrees from where we think we will find it.

The more money you earn, the more you'll be able to save.

We can tame the savageness of man and make gentle the life of the world.

Those who make big profits know how to profit from them.

The politics of nations are shaped by men with ideals and nobility.

A man or woman who has become conscious of the absurd will someday be free of it.

There is no victory in lost causes.

We can know beauty without being intimate with suffering.

The decadence of our era is different from that of others.

When you act, you risk more.

The world will not kill the very good, the very gentle, and the very brave impartially.

And that if you put enough time and effort into raising your children, they will turn out exactly the way you want.

Free to teens: how to organize your space, smartphone & self

From the County of Yolo

The Mary L. Stephens Davis Branch Library, located at 315 East 14th Street in Davis, will host a program for teens and their parents on Tuesday, October 15, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Blanchard Room. Ashley Meyers, a Davis High School alumna, professional organizer, will present a workshop to help teens organize their personal spaces and manage their time for optimum success.

"Today's young people are inundated with information every day," said Yolo County Librarian Patty Wong in a press release. "Keeping track of it all can be challenging, even for the best intentioned among us. If students want to be more efficient, the first step is learning the best ways of keeping organized. This free workshop offers students fun, creative ways to start that process."

Participants are asked to bring a smart phone, tablet or laptop, if they have one. Sign-ups for the workshop begin on October 1 and space is limited. To reserve a spot in the workshop, stop by the library, call (530) 757-5598 or email: DavisLibrary@yolocounty.org.

Organization that provides 'meals on wheels' to local shut-ins has a new boss

News-Ledger Staff

The program that brings "Meals on Wheels" to West Sacramento and Yolo County has a new executive director.

Christi Skibbins became the new exec this summer, replacing Nicki McCabe, who retired after six years at the helm.

Past positions for Skibbins include serving as executive director of the Davis Chamber of Commerce and as executive administrator of the team that opened "COPIA: The American Center for Wine, Food & the Arts" (a Napa facility now closed). Most recently, Skibbons worked in fundraising for Davis Farm to School.

"I am thrilled to have the opportunity to lead such a vital program for so many folks who need it, right here in my own community," said Skibbins by email this summer. "It will be a big job, particularly with government contributions declining and the number of seniors increasing with each passing year, but I relish the challenge and will be a fierce advocate for the program."

She described the mission of the program:

"The mission of the organization is to nourish and enrich the lives of individuals in Yolo County with emphasis on those age 60 and older, by providing nutritious meals to active and homebound people; thereby, promoting their health, well-being and independence. The program currently runs 4 congregate meal sites in the county, and has 23 delivery routes for those who are homebound, serving over 1100 seniors last year."

by California Rite Aid stores. . . Investigators found that Rite Aid was transporting hazardous waste and disposing it at landfills. The Yolo County District Attorney's (office) conducted waste inspections at all Yolo County Rite Aid stores and the distribution center and found violations of the hazardous waste control laws in all stores and the distribution center."

The drug store has six stores in Yolo County (including one in West Sacramento) plus a distribution center in Woodland.

The lawsuit alleged that Rite Aid mishandled products like pesticides, bleach and automotive fluids.

Reisig's office said the financial judgment will support environmental projects "that further consumer protection and environmental enforcement in California," and includes $100,000 for the training and education of statewide environmental investigators.

Sept. 28, 7:31 p.m.

Two officers were dispatched to Alyce Norman Elementary School on Anna Street after an alarm call. Dispatchers told them the alarm signal came from the school cafeteria.

The officer found an unlocked door and no signs of forced entry or "foul play." A district employee arrived to secure the building.

Sept. 29, 4 a.m.

An unknown person cut a fence in a burglary at a business on the 2400-block of Evergreen Avenue.

Sept. 29, 7:30 a.m.

An officer was dispatched to the 600-block of Jefferson after a theft of copper wire was reported at a city pump station.

A city employee reported:

"This morning at about 0323 hours I started getting calls from the 'scata' system alerting me one of the generators was running at the pump station location at 601 Jefferson Blvd. At first, it didn't concern me because sometimes there are power bumps that kick the generators on."

Other "alerts" followed, and:

"I came out at about 0515 hours and noticed that someone had broken into three of the 'tresco' electric panels and stole the copper wire. The panels are located between the building and our generator, so whoever stole the wire had some concealment while they were breaking in."

The employee estimated the worth of the wire at $600, and the cost of repairs at $5,000.

Sept. 29, 9:52 a.m.

A citizen reported there was a man "trying to hit people and acting crazy" at the corner of West Capitol and Jefferson. An officer responded and contacted a man matching the subject's description.

The man admitted having been drinking, and was arrested for "disorderly conduct: alcohol."

Sept. 29, 8:48 p.m.

Police responded to a disturbance on Maple Street.

A 24-year old Sacramento woman at the site told an officer she was at the scene to pick up her phone from a man there. She said she had been in a fight at an unknown location in north Sacramento, but refused to say who with or to provide other information. She declined medical aid.

Sept. 30, 12:20 a.m.

At a Riverpoint Court store parking lot: "employee's tires slashed, video footage collected."

colonies scattered across the wasteland. Briggs (Laurence Fishburne) leads Colony 7, and tries to keep some compassion in his rule. Mason (Bill Paxton) is a survival-of-the-fittest type of guy. A distress signal from another colony blows open the conflict between the two. Turns out that the neighboring colony is full of cannibals waiting to chase and eat the characters the audience doesn't care about. Too bad the rest of the movie plays out like a dispassionate zombie movie.

"Dirty Wars" (NR) -- News reporter Jeremy Scahill digs into the shadowy world of U.S. special-forces operations, exposing things that will stick in your mind for a while. In Afghanistan, Scahill speaks to survivors of raid that killed several civilians, including pregnant women. The description of the attackers and what Scahill finds by digging could change how you view America's place in the world. The documentary also travels through Somalia and Yemen, exploring the use of drone strikes and the secretive "kill list."

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"The Heat" (R) -- A wisemouth FBI agent (Sandra Bullock) and a bull-in-china-shop Boston police officer (Melissa McCarthy) are stuck together to take down some crime. They annoy and offend everyone within hearing range, but they get the job done. The familiar landscape of R-rated buddy cop movies gets a slight update from director Paul Feig ("Bridesmaids"), who sticks to genre conventions on everything except gender.

The jokes hit hard on the loud-and-inappropriate button. While the script hands them stale material, McCarthy and Bullock almost make up for it with comedy chemistry. McCarthy has established herself as a boisterous screen presence, and Bullock has a way of contributing without trying to match her partner's explosiveness.

"Pacific Rim" (PG-13) -- Giant monsters from a rift in the ocean are terrorizing the human world. The only (certainly the coolest) way to stop them is to deploy a fleet of giant fighting robots -- equipped with missiles, mega-swords and giant blenders for hands. Of course, the robots need human pilots who have to mind-meld in order to steer them properly.

If you can sit through "Transformers," then you can at least give this one a shot. Guillermo Del Toro directed the film, and he's a director who can handle giant robot monster battles with care. While the director supplies an extra sense of wonder to the visuals, don't look for big meaning in the script. The only deep part of this movie is the ocean that spawns the giant monsters, and that's OK.

Ripley's Believe It or Not: Dare to Look!" (Ripley's Publishing, $28.95)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

Robert Ripley was born in Santa Rosa, Calif., in 1890 and began his working career as a cartoonist. His work came to the attention of William Randolph Hearst, and soon he became part of King Features Syndicate. His syndicated cartoons debuted in 1929 and captivated the American public to such a degree that radio and television broadcasts soon followed.

Ripley was a dapper man, usually dressed in bow tie and spats, who traveled throughout the world in search of the bizarre and oddities. His travels were financed through his newspaper work.

"Ripley's Believe It or Not: Dare to Look!" is a new collection featuring the most bizarre, incredible and amazing true stories from around the world in the Ripley tradition. For example, featured are Farmer Hong and his traffic-stopping 5,000 ducks, the stone forest of Madagascar, a lake filled with jellyfish on an island in Palau, Jesus "Chuy" Aceves, the wolf-boy of Mexico, and the biggest collection of dummies ever seen, spotlighted in an eight-page gatefold on the history of ventriloquists.

This is a fascinating book and the perfect gift for anyone interested in exploring the extraordinary.

Have a Healthy Fall

Some fruits and vegetables are easier to come by in the summer months, but there is still a good variety available in the fall and winter. It's important to include fruits and vegetables in your diet yearround to stay healthy and ward off diseases. Here are some of the superstar fruits and vegetables of the fall and winter months.

Sweet potatoes: They're loaded with beta-carotene (which the body makes into vitamin A), vitamin C, potassium, fiber, iron and vitamin B6. Sweet potatoes have more nutrients than regular white potatoes and can replace white potatoes in some recipes. Try them mashed, baked or as a dessert.

Apples: Apples are a traditional fall favorite and are easy to find in the supermarket, or you can pick your own at a nearby orchard. They are a quick, easy snack and can be paired with peanut butter or cheese for protein. Apples contain antioxidants, which may help protect against certain cancers and reduce levels of LDL, or bad cholesterol. Apples have vitamin C, vitamin K and fiber. Remember the old saying, "an apple a day keeps the doctor away."

Broccoli: This is one vegetable that can be eaten raw or cooked, hot or cold, by itself or with other foods. Broccoli can help prevent cancer and heart disease, and boost the immune system. Nutrients in broccoli include vitamin C, vitamin A, vitamin B-6, iron, calcium, magnesium and vitamin E.

Pumpkin: Pumpkin is a great source of potassium and beta carotene, a powerful antioxidant that is good for the eyes. Canned or prepared fresh, pumpkin can be made into a variety of soups, baked goods and desserts.

Kiwi: This fruit can be eaten alone (after peeling) or can be added to many different dishes, including soups, salads and desserts. Kiwi contains antioxidants, which can help protect the eyes, heart and colon. Kiwi has vitamin C, fiber, potassium, magnesium and vitamin E.

Avocado: Avocados contain healthy monounsaturated fat. Even healthy fat is a dense source of energy, so it's important to eat avocados in moderation. They also contain vitamin E, fiber, potassium, folate and vitamin C. Avocados can be used on sandwiches or salads, or made into guacamole.

Spinach: Dark-green veggies contain a variety of nutrients a healthy body needs. Spinach is packed with vitamin A, vitamin K, iron, folate, magnesium, vitamin C, calcium, potassium, fiber and vitamin E. Spinach also has antioxidants and anti-cancer agents. Frozen or fresh spinach can be added to just about any meal. Try using it on pizza or lasagna or use it instead of lettuce in a salad.

Pears: They are a good source of fiber, antioxidants and vitamin C. Research suggests that regularly eating pears and other fruits may guard against macular degeneration. Pears seldom cause allergies and are usually safe for infants and small children.

Green beans: Green beans are high in vitamin K, which protects red blood cells and helps reduce the severity of asthma, osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis. They also contain vitamin C, potassium, folate, iron and magnesium. Green beans can be served as a side dish or used in salads, soups or casseroles.

My recipe for Lebanese-Style Green Beans uses this superstar fall vegetable in an interesting and delicious new way! (Additional information courtesy of Melissa Bess, Nutrition and Health Education Specialist, Camden County, University of Missouri Extension.)

LEBANESE-STYLE GREEN BEANS

There's a wonderful, thick Lebanese strained yogurt called Labenah that is used in everything from pasta to vegetables. I've substituted Greek yogurt and spices to create a creamy, rich dressing that's perfect for green beans or as a sauce with cooked pasta. Frozen or canned green beans also will work just fine. Just strain off any liquids after cooking before tossing with the dressing.

1 pound green beans, trimmed and cut diagonally into 1-inch pieces
1 clove garlic, minced, or 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup nonfat plain Greek yogurt
1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint or parsley (optional)
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper

1. Place a medium bowl of ice water near the stove. Bring an inch of water to a boil in a large saucepan fitted with a steamer basket. Add green beans, cover, and cook until tender, 6 to 8 minutes. Transfer the beans to the ice water to cool. Remove from the ice water with a slotted spoon and let drain on a kitchen towel; blot dry with another towel.

2. If using fresh garlic, mash with salt using the back of a spoon until a paste forms. Whisk the garlic paste (or garlic powder and salt) with yogurt, oil, mint or parsley (if using), nutmeg and pepper in a large bowl. Add the green beans and toss to coat. Serve warm or cold. Serves 4.

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

Relief of Bidder: Attention is directed to the provisions of Public Contracts Code Section 5101 and following, concerning relief of bidders and in particular to the requirements therein that if the bidder claims a mistake was made in his bid, the bidder shall give the City written notice, within five (5) calendar days after the opening of bids of the alleged mistake, specifying in the notice, in detail, how the mistake occurred.

The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 1512 NORFOLK AVENUE, WEST SACRAMENTO, CA 95691 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the Note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said Note(s), advances if any, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, estimated fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. The total amount of the unpaid balance of the obligations secured by the property to be sold and reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of this Notice of Trustee's Sale is estimated to be $148,808.84 (Estimated), provided, however, prepayment premiums, accrued interest and advances will increase this figure prior to sale. Beneficiary's bid at said sale may include all or part of said amount. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the California Financial Code and authorized to do business in California, or other such funds as may be acceptable to the Trustee. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale.
